

The next step in the right direction

apsolut is a young consulting company focused on optimizing business processes in purchasing. In addition to strategic purchasing consulting, our consulting services include implementation of software solutions for eProcurement, vendor management, strategic purchasing (sourcing), master data harmonization, and tailored customer solutions.

Consulting covers all aspects of a holistic approach. In our opinion, consulting concerns not only the analysis and conceptual design of a suitable purchasing solution, but also implementation strategy consulting, process design, customer-oriented enhancements, and all aspects of project management.

To be able to satisfy this holistic requirement, our portfolio also includes contiguous topics such as technology and infrastructure consulting. apsolut's branch offices in Bielefeld and Leinfelden-Echterdingen offer this portfolio to customers of all sizes, from all industrial sectors, both nationally and internationally, thus ensuring a broad and varied environment with different areas of specialization.

We wish to further expand our service offering and therefore seek the following person to support our consulting team:

Senior Consultant (m/f)

for SAP Supplier Relationship Management (SRM)/ Process and Purchasing Consulting

For your next career move, we will offer you optimal, job-related, and practice-oriented on-the-job training, so that you can apply your goal and solution-oriented skills to versatile customer projects, in line with your knowledge and skills. Your tasks will span apsolut's entire service portfolio and together we will identify an area of specialization that reflects your prior knowledge and interests.

You fit the bill if you have successfully completed your studies in information systems, industrial engineering or business studies or if you can provide evidence of having received a comparable education. You have several years of experience in strategic and conceptual design consulting in both IT and purchasing. Sound knowledge of the SAP SRM components as well as a very good overall understanding of purchasing processes complement your profile. Ideally, you have the ability to accompany and advise customers along the entire purchasing lifecycle. Furthermore, you have a very good analytical and well-structured mind, excellent communication and presentation skills, are able to work within a team, and are very flexible and mobile. You have very good written and spoken English and basic process knowledge is one of your strengths, along with experience in defining IT strategies & IT reorganization plans and knowledge of change management processes.

Do you attach great importance to excellent development prospects, innovative methods, being part of a qualified and motivated team as well as receiving an attractive remuneration package? If so, we should get to know each other. If you identify with the above profile, contact Tatjana Bernhard (personal@ap-solut.com) in complete confidence.
